

Vitor Rodrigues

QASDG Member

Born 1957 in Portugal.

Obtained his MD degree in 1981 and his PhD in Preventive Medicine and Public School in 1993 at the Coimbra's Medical School.

He is Associate Professor at the same University and he is responsible for the disciplines of Epidemiology and Health Economics.

Experience in epidemiological evaluation and Coordination of populational screening breast cancer screening programmes since 1990 and member of cancer screening scientific groups.

Scientific consultant of population cancer registries and member of official regional oncologic committees.

Author or co-author of several papers in the field of oncology.